DETAILED ACTION

1. Due to new ground of rejection, the following rejections are made non-final.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 13-17 and 20-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 13, applicants recite the step of removing portions of the photodefinable polymer to form the three-dimensional structure of cross-linked photodefinable polymer. Is this “cross-linked photodefinable polymer” the same as the photodefinable polymer mentioned in line 3 of present claim 13? That is, in the step of disposing a photodefinable polymer composition (the first step of present claim 13), are applicants disposing an already-crosslinked photodefinable polymer? If not, when does this crosslinking of the photodefinable polymer occur (since it does not occur on the exposure step –the exposure step of present claim 13 makes the polymer decomposable (i.e., removable), not crosslinkable)?

Also, in claim 14, line 4, by the phrase “the photodefinable polymer composition”, do applicants mean the cross-linked photodefinable polymer composition?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Art Unit: 1752

5. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Otani et al (JP 2001-226419 and its machine-assisted English translation provided by JPO).

Otani teaches (see abstract) a photocurable resin composition comprising a polyester resin and a photoinitiator. Specifically in Example 2 (see [0045]), Otani uses phenylbis(2,4,6-trimethylbenzoyl)phosphine oxide (Irgacure 819) as the photoinitiator. Therefore, Otani teaches present invention of claim 9 (present application includes polyesters as one of examples for the present sacrificial polymer).

Response to Arguments

6. Applicants argue that Otani does not teach present sacrificial polymer because the role of Otani's photoinitiator is to induce a cross-linking reaction of the polymer not a bond breaking or fragmentation of the polymer. However, just because Otani's polymer goes through the crosslinking reaction by the photoinitiator that does not mean that Otani's polymer cannot be sacrificial polymer. For example, even in present specification (see pg.6), applicants still call the polymer "a sacrificial polymer" in embodiment where a negative tone photoinitiator is used ("[i]n general, negative tone photoinitiators can be used making the sacrificial polymer more difficult to remove."). Even though applicants argue that Otani's photoinitiator increases the thermal resistance of the polymer to make it more stable thermally, that does not mean that his polymer cannot be decomposed at all (there can be other methods than thermal decomposition). Present claim 9 is not a process claim, in which a polymer decomposition step is required. It is a product claim, which requires the presence of a photodefinable polymer including a sacrificial polymer (a decomposable polymer) and either one of those two photoinitiators listed. Since Otani's composition contains a polyester resin (which present specification includes as one of examples for the present sacrificial polymer) and phenylbis(2,4,6-trimethylbenzoyl)phosphine oxide, it is still the Examiner's position that Otani teaches present invention of claim 9.
